

PHILADELPHIA KEEPS IN STEP IN ITS CONTRIBUTIONS TOWARDS "MILLIONS FOR DEFENSE"

CLERKS OF FINANCIAL DISTRICT IN MILITARY ARRAY
 Employes of the Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives, whose building, 517 Chestnut street, faces Independence Hall, have organized an infantry command of sixty members.

QUICK TO RESPOND TO ORDERS OR TO A CALL FOR HOME DEFENSE
 Not even West Point enjoys a more enviable reputation for proficiency in the drill regulations of the United States army than the cadets of the Pennsylvania Military Academy at Chester.

A SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR ECHO THAT VIBRATES WITH NEW VIGOR
 The Olney Guard, organized in 1898, is drilling at St. James Church, with signal corps, wireless and first-aid squads as adjuncts to its regular equipment.

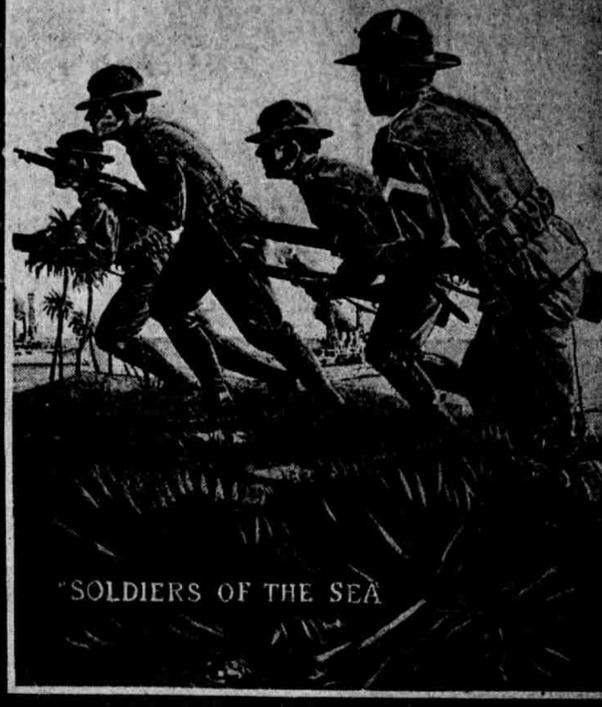

Navy League headquarters at the Adelphia are competently handled by Mrs. M. Spatola (left), Mrs. Ethel Keebler (middle) and Mrs. W. W. Toles (right).

CAN HANDLE FIELD ARTILLERY LIKE REGULAR GUNNERS
 In their service the Chester cadets are trained to a high degree of skill and accuracy.

OPPORTUNITY TO SEE WORLD, STARTING FROM LIBERTY'S SHRINE
 Independence Hall and its vicinity are placarded with Marine Corps literature, inviting recruits, an appeal which is bearing fruit in patriotic Philadelphia.

DONATES HIMSELF AND YACHT TO COUNTRY'S SERVICE
 J. H. R. Cromwell, now lieutenant in the Naval Reserve, by his action, gives to Philadelphia the right to boast that in time of need "We've got the ships, we've got the men, we've got the money, too."

A PIONEER AMONG THE SCHOOL MILITARY CORPS OF THE NATION
 Girard College has contributed a goodly quota to the country's battalions in the spirit animating the school's military corps.
